

CRS Report for Congress

Received through the CRS Web

Immigration: A Guide to Internet Sources

Barbara A. Salazar
Information Research Specialist
Information Research Division

Summary

This report identifies selected Web sites from the Internet on immigration topics in the United States. Selected government, legal, and organizational Web site addresses are provided. On March 1, 2003, enforcement function and service responsibilities of the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) transferred to the newly created Cabinet-level Department of Homeland Security (DHS). This report will be updated periodically as new information becomes available and to ensure the currency of the Web addresses as a result of the reorganization and during this time of transition.

Selected Web Sites on Immigration Issues

Listed below are selected Web sites examining immigration issues in three categories: federal government, legal sites, and organizations. A brief description accompanies each entry with details on related links.

U.S. Government Web Sites

The Homeland Security Act of 2002 (P.L. 107-296) reorganized the federal government with the creation of the Department of Homeland Security (DHS), and abolished the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS), an agency of the Department of Justice (DOJ). On March 1, 2003, enforcement function and service responsibilities of the INS transferred to the DHS as the Bureau of Border Security (BBS) and Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services (BCIS) under the DHS Directorate of Border and Transportation Security (BTS). (See CRS Report RL31560, Homeland Security Proposals: Issues Regarding Transfer of Immigration Agencies and Functions, for additional details.)

Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services (BCIS) under the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) Directorate of Border and Transportation Security (BTS)

[<http://www.immigration.gov/graphics/index.htm>]

This main page of the BCIS site (formerly the INS Web site) is the gateway to the latest immigration news and to links for specific “Hot Topics” such as:

This is the BCIS

[<http://www.immigration.gov/graphics/aboutus/thisisimm/index.htm>]

Details the priorities of the new BCIS to promote national security, continue to eliminate immigration adjudications backlogs, administer the Visa program, work authorizations and other permits, and provide services for new residents and citizens by improving on customer services. The Director of the BCIS will report directly to the Deputy Secretary of Homeland Security.

Case Work—Resources for Immigration Case Workers

[<http://www.immigration.gov/graphics/aboutus/congress/resource.htm>]

Information for congressional offices on assisting constituents with a variety of immigration questions is provided. It also links to the main Office of Congressional Relations site [<http://www.immigration.gov/graphics/aboutus/congress/OCR.htm>].

Forms, Fees, and Fingerprints

[<http://www.immigration.gov/graphics/formsfee/index.htm>]

This Web site has electronic copies of numerous forms with detailed instructions as well as information on fees and applicant fingerprinting services.

Frequently Asked Questions [FAQs] on Immigration

[<http://www.immigration.gov/graphics/faqs.htm>]

Answers to frequently asked questions ranging from “What’s a green card?” to “What type of a visa do I need?” are listed alphabetically by subject.

Laws, Regulations, and Guides

[<http://www.immigration.gov/graphics/lawsregs/index.htm>]

Provides information on laws, regulations, interpretations on immigration law, and how laws and regulations are developed

Media and Public Affairs Information Headings

[<http://www.immigration.gov/graphics/publicaffairs/presinfo.htm>]

Information is listed alphabetically by subject (admissions, citizenship/naturalization, benefits eligibility, enforcement, 245i, LIFE, etc.) or chronologically.

Restructuring and Transition

[<http://www.immigration.gov/graphics/aboutus/restruct/index.htm>]

Background information on the proposal to restructure the INS announced by the DOJ on November 14, 2001, and discussed by the Attorney General and INS Commissioner. This Web site has the text of the INS Fact Sheet, the full INS Restructuring Plan, and related information on Homeland Security.

SEVP–Student Exchange Visitor Program

[<http://www.immigration.gov/graphics/services/tempbenefits/sevp.htm>]

This program was formerly known as the Coordinated Interagency Partnership Regulating International Students (CIPRIS). This Web site has information on the SEVP system, which allows electronic data collection via the Student and Exchange Visitor Information System (SEVIS) and reporting on nonimmigrant students/visitors and exchange student/visitors (F, M, and J visa categories), which will help the INS better monitor school and exchange programs.

Statistics for Immigration to the United States, 1994-2002

[<http://www.immigration.gov/graphics/shared/aboutus/statistics/index.htm>]

Access is provided to statistical data from the publication, Statistical Yearbook of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, and from other data systems.

Bureau of Border Security (BBS) under the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) Directorate of Border and Transportation Security (BTS)

[http://www.dhs.gov/dhspublic/interapp/editorial/editorial_0089.xml]

Information on the BTIS and how the enforcement functions of INS were transferred, along with other federal agencies. Included is a link to the Bureau of Customs and Border Protection (CBP) at [<http://www.bice.immigration.gov/graphics/index.htm>]. With the March 1, 2003, transfer of INS immigration interior enforcement responsibilities into the DHS, the new Bureau of Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) was created.

Library of Congress, American Memory, and THOMAS

[<http://lcweb2.loc.gov/ammem/ndlpedu/features/immig/alt/introduction.html>]

This Web site is maintained by the Library of Congress and contains historical information on immigration to the United States from the Library's collections. Information on immigration bills can be located on THOMAS, the Library's legislative Web site, at [<http://thomas.loc.gov>]. Click on "Bill Summary and Status" to search the 108th and past Congresses (93rd through 107th).

U.S. Census Bureau, Foreign-Born Population Statistics

[<http://www.census.gov/population/www/socdemo/foreign.html>]

It has data on the characteristics of the foreign-born population, including legal immigrants, undocumented immigrants, and temporary residents, such as students and workers on business visas.

U.S. Commission on Immigration Reform

[<http://www.utexas.edu/lbj/uscir>]

The Commission was created by the Immigration Act of 1990 and dissolved in December 1997. Its reports are available at this Web site maintained by the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs, University of Texas at Austin.

U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS)

[<http://www.dhs.gov/dhspublic>]

The Web site of the DHS with links to all its 22 agencies. Information on immigration benefits and border management is accessed via the borders and immigration links located at [http://www.dhs.gov/dhspublic/theme_home4.jsp].

U.S. Department of State

[<http://www.state.gov/interntl>]

This Web site has information on some immigration topics such as visas, refugees, and cultural and educational exchanges.

Bureau of Population, Refugees, and Migration (PRM)

[<http://www.state.gov/g/prm>]

This Web site provides information on the refugee population worldwide and policies regarding assistance and admission to the United States. The PRM has primary responsibility for formulating policies on population, refugees, and migration.

Bureau of Consular Affairs K and V Visas

[<http://travel.state.gov/vvisas/index.html>]

This Web site has information on the new K and V visas, the categories of nonimmigrant visas created by the LIFE Act. Included is information on where to apply and application forms.

Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs

[<http://exchanges.state.gov/education>]

This site has information on the Au Pair program and cultural and educational exchanges like the J Visa Exchange Program.

Visa Services

[http://travel.state.gov/visa_services.html]

This Web site provides links to the Diversity Visa (DV)-2004 Lottery (a.k.a. (Green Card Lottery) and other types of visa (immigrant and non-immigrant) information.

Legal Web Sites

American Immigration Lawyers Association (AILA)

[<http://www.aila.org>]

This is the Web site of the national bar association of attorneys practicing immigration law. It provides the latest news on immigration legislation and AILA publications.

Cornell University Immigration Law

[<http://www.law.cornell.edu/topics/immigration.html>]

This Web site provides an overview of immigration law and offers access to federal and international legal materials as well as links to "Key Internet Sources."

Immigration Web Portal

[<http://www.ilw.com>]

This Web site has information for immigration lawyers and for those seeking assistance with immigration casework. It also provides access to Immigration Daily news at [<http://www.ilw.com/lawyers/immigdaily>].

National Immigration Law Center (NILC)

[<http://www.nilc.org>]

This is the Web site for an advocacy group assisting low-income immigrants and their families with legal questions on employment, public benefits, etc. Included are links to NILC publications.

Organizations' Web Sites

Americans for Better Immigration (ABI)

[<http://www.betterimmigration.org>]

A nonprofit, nonpartisan organization which lobbies Congress for reductions in immigration numbers. The ABI maintains "immigration report cards" grading federal politicians on their immigration actions (by member name and by state) and provides a Web link to the Congressional Immigration Reform Caucus.

Center for Immigration Studies (CIS)

[<http://www.cis.org>]

Founded in 1985, the CIS is an independent, nonpartisan, nonprofit research organization devoted exclusively to analyzing the "economic, social, demographic, fiscal, and other impacts of immigration on the United States." Included are CIS publications, current news articles, and current information on common immigration topics such as citizenship, legal/illegal immigration, refugee/asylum issues, wages, and poverty.

FAIR (Federation for American Immigration Reform)

[<http://www.fairus.org>]

FAIR is "a national, non-profit, public interest organization of concerned citizens who share a common belief that the unforeseen mass immigration that has occurred over the last 30 years should not continue." Included are links to its publications, testimony before Congress, current issues and legislation, U.S. immigration history, and statistical data, and it provides links to similar conservative organizations.

Georgetown University, Institute for the Study of International Migration

[<http://www.georgetown.edu/sfs/programs/isim/publications.htm>]

The Institute for the Study of International Migration (ISIM) is part of the Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service affiliated with the Law Center at Georgetown University. The ISIM studies issues raised by international migration, including immigration to the United States and its social and legal impact. A publications list is provided.

Immigration Superhighway

[http://www.immigration-usa.com/i_suphwy.html]

This Web site has information on and links to the Immigration Nationality Act, immigration forms, advocacy groups, and news articles on current immigration topics.

Migration Policy Institute (MPI)

[<http://www.migrationpolicy.org>]

Found in 1989, the MPI originated from the Carnegie Endowment's International Migration Policy Program "to analyze the movement of people worldwide." On May 22, 2002, the Migration Information Source at [<http://www.migrationinformation.org>] was launched by the MPI to provide current data and analysis on migration and refugee issues.

National Network for Immigrant and Refugee Rights (NNIRR)

[<http://www.nnirr.org>]

This Web site is a forum for "a national organization of local coalitions and immigrant, refugee, community, religious, civil rights, labor organizations and activists." Included are links to NNIRR's bimonthly newsletter, current issues, and resources.

National Visa Services

[<http://www.nationalvisaservice.com/index.asp>]

Founded in 1994, this self-proclaimed "Gateway to America" provides information on applying for the latest diversity lottery to obtain a green card.

RAND's Center for Research on Immigration Policy (CRIP)

[<http://www.rand.org/education/crip.html>]

Established in 1988 by RAND, one of the first "think tanks" in the United States, CRIP conducts analytical research and policy analysis on the integration of immigrants in the United States, access to public services by immigrants, the education of immigrants and their children, and links between immigration and national security issues. A link to a bibliography of CRIP publications is provided.

Urban Institute's Population Studies

[<http://www.urban.org/centers/psissue.html>]

The Urban Institute is a nonpartisan economic and social policy research organization. Its Population Studies Research Center analyzes issues related to immigration such as immigrant health, economic status, undocumented aliens in the criminal justice system, and other topics. A listing of current Population Studies publications on various immigration issues can be accessed by clicking on "Reports/Books" or by going directly to [<http://www.urban.org/centers/pspubs.html>].