

INSTRUCTOR RESOURCE MANUAL

Read and reread the campaigns of Alexander, Hannibal, Caesar, Gustaphus Adolphus, Turenne and Frederick; take them as your model; that is the only way of becoming a Great Captain, to obtain the secrets of the art of war.

- Napoleon

This instructor resource manual is a collection of articles that can be useful when teaching this course. The articles are taken from a number of sources and are cited as readings in the discussion guides of Volume Three. Instructors are encouraged to use other articles, readings and guest lecturers as necessary to broaden the scope of the course as much as possible.

This resource manual is designed to be a dynamic document: as better articles are identified by instructors, they should be added. Instructors finding appropriate articles are to provide them to the course coordinator for review. The course coordinator is responsible for getting copyright release authorization on additional articles. CNET will distribute approved articles when appropriate.

Publishers and authors have agreed to allow these articles to be reproduced for the educational purposes of Evolution of Warfare instructors and students. Should copyright questions arise, copies of the authorization letters are in the Annex of this manual. The original letters of authorization are kept on file at CNET. Instructors are to ensure every copy contains an acknowledgement of the publisher and is distributed at no cost to students.
