Sensors Panel Charter

In concert with the New World Vistas theme of “identifying fields of rapid technological change that are likely to revolutionize the 21st century,” the Charter of the Sensors Panel is to identify new sensor concepts and technologies which, if pursued, will have strong impact in satisfying important military needs in the future in terms of greatly improved performance and/or affordability. Opportunities to cooperate with commercial developments and dual-use implications are also important factors in identifying the key sensor concepts and technologies to be pursued.
